Upon that most trying fortnight-plus-a-week-or-ten days of all the year-do we enter on this identical night; the theaters all feel the importance of the occasion, and have all "put on the big team," and the various programmes for the present week are fairly bresietible in novelty and attractiveness.

Laura Keene's Theater .- The grand spectacle of "The Seven Sisters" has proved a great hit, and has been, since the first night, materially improved by such alterations, curtailments, additions, and variations, as bave seemed meet. It is now an exceedingly amusing and attractive spectacle, and, considered apart from the dislogue, is a bright succession of scenic beauties-the last and crowning one of which is unmatched in gergeousness by any stage display ever seen in America. This piece will be acted every night this week.

Winter Garden .- Mr. Edwin Booth, whose fame grows with each successive character he personates, will, this evening, for the first time this engagement appear as Richard III. On Saturday night he played "Pescara," in The Apostate, for the second time, supported by Mrs. Duffield and Mr. Studley as "Florinda" and "Hemeya."

The latter gentleman, and not Mr. Lingham, as we mistakenly asserted, is entitled to the questionable honor of having enacted Hemeya on Thursday evening, on which occasion certain demerits in the personation were made, in these columns, the subject of severe sensure. Our error arose from reposing a ridiculous faith in the small bills of the house, which conspicuously acnounced Mr. Lingham as Hemeya, and made no note whatever of Mr. Studley, whereby Mr. Lingham received a castigation intended for another person. It is always due to the public, and to the actors implicated, that, when a sudden substitution of one actor for another, in an important part, becomes necessary, the fact be announced from the stage, both that the indulgence of the audience may be extended to the unexpected performer, and that the absent one neither receive credit for laurels won by another, nor be held responsible for shortcomings not his own. Attention by the proper party to this rule of common public courtesy. on Thursday night, would have spared a deserving actor much pain, and have obtained for a stranger, suddenly called to fill a responsible position, for which he was probably but partially prepared, much kinder consider-

In justice to Mr. Studley, we remark, that on his sec end personation of Hemeya, his former harshness was much modified, his complexion had assumed the proper swarthy hue, and his whole delineration of the characber of the Apostale Moor was far more worthy of commendation than his first attempt.

The cast of Richard III. to-night calls into requisition the services of the entire company, and the play will be effectively presented.

Niblo's Garden .- The tragedy of Macbeth will be acted to-night for the first time during Mr. Forrest's engagement, with that tragedian, of course, as the guilty king. Much money has been lavished on this piece, and many weeks of time have been spent in making fit preparations for the proper presentation of Shakespeare's tragic masterpiece. All the scenes have been painted specialty for this play, and the costumes and decorations have been prepared on a scale of unwonted splendor. Many noticeable restorations of the original text, and a unique management of the super-natural elements of the tragedy, will call for a more elaboraté notice. On Thursday and on Saturday nights, was given an eriental spectacle, called "The Prodigal Son." It is founded on the Scripture story, and, with regard to by put on the stage. It is very excellently acted by Mrs. F. B. Conway, and Mesers. Conway, Fenno, Chas. Fisher, Canoll, and others. The " Mysteries of Iris," which seem to conrist entirely of sacred gyrations of young ladies, attired after the fashion of the modern ballet, and who "bebaves themselves as sich," are conducted by Madame Theleur, Mile, Felice, and Mile, Marian, much to the satisfaction of the audience. The play is, on the whole, well acted, and well merited.

Some interesting and instructive facts in ancient lexicology are also developed through the modern medium of Mesers. Chester and Harrison. From an Ebrious conversation of these two worthies, we learn that, several thousand years ago, it was common for jovial gentlemen of the camel-driving persuasion to get drunk and roll in the olden gutters of sacred Memphis, not having the fear of the Egyptian police before their tipey eyes; that they used to say "let's liquor," and were accustomed to perform that pleasing ceremony, assisted by a wicker-covered flask of the size and shape of those in modern days, and holding one pint, be the same more or less; that they were not ignorant of the familiar phrase, "See you hanged first;" that they could "hooray" in a style perfectly recognizable by Nineteenth Centurvite; that it was not unusual for one gentleman of that date to address another gentleman of the period as a "son of a gun," and that none better than they understood the frequent and emphatic employment of our terse but emphatic personal eulogium,

To all of which we desire to respectfully call the attention of Dr. Abbott, his successors, heirs, or assigns. Wallack's Theater .- A double event of unusual interest will make this evening memorable at thi house-the simultaneous appearance of a new five-act comedy, and a new and untried actress. The name of the comedy is announced as "The Model Hypocrite," and the name of the lady is said to be Henriques. Of the respective merits of the two, time will tell. The house will, of course, be crowded.

Barnum's American Museum .- The new play, "Rose Elmer," has been a great success, and is to be continued. With his neual tireless ingenuity in search ing out, discovering or inventing new curiosities, Mr Barnum has now produced a human wonder of an entirely novel description. She is, anatomically speak ing a young woman; vocally speaking (ha! ha!) she is either a woman or a man, as you, the public, choose. "You pays your, &c., and you takes your, etc." The wonder is, in short, a young woman, named Dora Dawran, who has been gifted by nature with two distinct voices. She sings admirably, at one moment eliciting rounds of applause by the sweetness, delicacy and purity of her soprano notes, and then exciting wonder by the depth and richness of her deep contralto tones. Dressed in a unique costume, talf masculine, and semi-feminine, she is enabled to sing with a curious and very amusing effect, various duets, arranged for a male and female voice. She changes from one voice to the other instantaneously, and without the stightest interruption in the continuity of the tone, its quality only being changed. She is really a curiosity well worthy the attention of the public. Bowery Theater.-The Circus, which has been drawing crowded houses, puts forth new claims to at tention, in an entirely novel programme. It is so good an entertainment that we hope it may become a per-

has never neld more delighted or enthusiastic andiences than reemble nightly to listen to the fine music, and the pleasant jests of this admirable company. One specialty of the leaders of the fun here, is the aptness and quickness of their local allusions and funny isms No incident of special public interest but serves as a subject for an appropriate song, or a quip, quirk, or eccentric sable jest at once, immed ately, right off and without delay.

New Bowery Theater .- To-night the horse drama of Putnam," is to be revived.

Bryant's Minstrels .- This week the special future will be a new negroized farce, called " Used Up."

THE SEVENTH REGIMENT AND THE WIDE AWAKES .- In reply to the New-York correspondent of The Charleston Courier we have received the following communication:

To the Editor of The N. Y. Tribune. Sin: Although correspondents of certain journals at the South and elsewhere, may be well posted in the tactics of the Seventh Regiment National Guard, including, of course, the political views of its members, yet they may never have seen, or even views of its members, yet they may never have seen, or even heard of the following resolution passed by its board of officers in April, 1858, and promulgated in the Regiment at that time.

Resolved, That this Board do most decidedly condemn the practice, on the part of any member of this Regiment in replying or commenting upon any publication in relation to the Regiment, which may appear in the public prints, without, at least, he knowledge and approbation of a Field officer.

Commonications signed "An Officer," or "A Private," or in any manner identifying the writer with the Regiment—although published as the opinions of an individual—do nevertheless computer a reaster or loss degree, besides. promise the entire corps to a greater or less degree, beside keeping the Regiment before the public in an ostentations manill-befitting that modest and soldiery discharge of duty which he and should always characterize it, and every member who has at heart a due regard for its reputation and welfare as a military body, will recognize the impropriety complained of, and abstain

Taking into consideration that the men of the Seventh obey orders, correspondents to Southern journals can well afford to write what they choose about members of the Guard.

WORK AT THE TAX-COLLECTORS' OFFICE .- On the two days preceding the 1st of December nearly two millions of dollars were paid in at the Tax-office. Of this amount $1,423,049 72 was paid on Friday, which is about $600,000 more than was ever before collected in one day. Incredible as it may seem, one banking inmitution paid a tax in round numbers of $153,000. Mr. Kelly, the receiver, and his sids, on the last day were 22 hours on duty, without leaving the bhilding even to eat. The following are the receipts at the Tax-office for the past four days:

Monday, Nov. 26. 286,145 09 Tuesday, Nov. 27. 426,958 55 Wednesday, Nov. 28. 491,841 34 Friday, Nov. 30. 1,420,231 29	603 55 1,044 28 1,110 20 } Two Days 2,819 43 } $1916,001 96
Total	5,517 36

The work of a month was thus crowded into the space of a few days. This is partly owing to the delay of the Supervisors in confirming the tax list. According to law it should have been confirmed by the 1st of September, but the confirmation was not made until October 12, and the Tax Collector did not get it until the 22d. The rate of taxation the present year (169 481-1,000) is about ten cents lower on $100 than that of last year. This is not owing to any reduction in the tax levy, but to a more complete bringing out of the resources of the MEETING OF THE NEW-YORK TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION .- The regular monthly meeting of the New-York Typographical Union No. 6, was held on Saturday night, at their rooms, No. 163 Bowery. After admitting several members, the Union proceeded to elect officers for the year 1861, which resulted as follows: For President, John L. Brown; Vice-President, Chas. S. Taylor; Recording Secretary, D. W. Flynn; Financial Secretary, Geo. A. Colburn; Corresponding Secretary, Thomas E. Fish; Treasurer, Samuel Sloan; Fund Trustee, Charles B. Smith; Janitor, Edward Britton. A resolution of condolence with the relatives of the late Ben. Swaim, formerly a member of the Union, was passed. The Union adjourned.

No Cash at the Custom-House .- Last Saturday was pay day at the Custom-House; but by a mietake the drafts for the monthly salaries, instead of coming to this city went to Charleston, S. as the drafts for Charleston were immediately sent back to Washington.

ARREST OF BURGLARS.—On Saturday night Officer Areson of the Eighteenth Ward, ascertained that burglars were in the liquor store, No. 289 Avenne A, and immediately took measures to secure them. While warching for them, some confederates of the burglars threw a number of stones at the officer from the opposite side of the street, hoping thereby to divert his attention. As this device failed of its object, the burglars, three in number, rushed out of the store and attempted to seeape. Two of them succeeded in so doing, but the third was arrested and taken to the Station House. He gave his name as Eugene Smith, and was yesterday committed for examination by Justice Quackenbush.

THE MURDER IN THE FIFTH WARD-SURRENDER OF THE ACCUSED .- Charles McCauley, the alleged murderer of Patrick Kelly, surrendered himself to Capt. King of the Second Precinct Police, at the Station-House, on Saturday morning. The accused, after entering the door, walked up to the desk, and the officers present, mistaking him for an applicant for lodgings, were about informing him that there was no room and that he must go elsewhere, when the man stated that he was the man that was accused of killing Kelly and that he came to surrender himself. He had on a slonch black hat, dark coat and overalls. The description given as to his clothing when he left the house after the perpetration of the marder was that he had on a white cap and white shirt. It was also stated that he had whiskers. His appearance indicated, when he entered the Station-House, that he had recently been shaved. On his way to the police station he passed two officers who were in search of him, they not having the least suspicion as to who he was; and it is fair to presume that if he had not stated the object of his visit to the Station-House he might have made his escape at leisure if he had so whosen. In relation to the occurrences which resulted in the death of Kelly, he says he does not recollect having used a lodgings, were about informing him that there was no knife, but if he did it was a double-bladed penknife which he then had but which he had since lost. He knife, but if he did it was a double-bladed penknife which he then had but which he had since lost. He told Coroner Horton that John Tammany and Kelly (the deceased) were at him at the same time. Tammany caught him about the neck, and both went down on their knees. Kelly meanwhile was "pegging" him about the head. It was at this time that he cut Tammany in the left thigh, which made him release his bold, and then he rushed upon Kelly. On being questioned as to his whereabouts since Thursday night he stated that he had secreted himself under Whiting's Submarine Railway, at the foot of Gold street, and in an adjoining stave yard. He denied that he called at the house of Alexander McDonald in Water street, and then said he did stop there, and all he remembered was that he was told to clear out. He denies having been harbored by any person; that he remained about his hiding-lace, believing, momentarily, that he would be detected, and after becoming nearly famished, having had nothing to eat for several days, he finally concluded to surrender himself and meet the consequences. He was asked where he had shaved himself, to which he answered that he went to his own house to do it. When told that the house was locked, he said he had a key with which he could unlock the doors, and that after he came out again, he threw it away. He was very contradictory in some of his statements and that after he came out again, he threw it away He was very contradictory in some of his statemen

He was very contradictory in some of his statements—denying some of the circumstances and then admitting them. He appeared to be very much troubled and expressed his deep sorrow at what he had done.

Coroner Horton commenced an investigation into the circumstances of the case on Saturday afternoon. Several witnesses were examined, among them, Mrs. Kelly, the wife of deceased, the McDouald's who were superied of harderigantly account. Kelly, the wife of deceased, the McDonald's who were suspected of harboring the accused, and the physicians who made the post-mortem examination. Nothing materially different from the account published on Saturday morning was elicited, and it is therefore unnecessary to reproduce the evidence thus far taken. The most important witness, John Tammany, was unable to be present in consequence of his injuries. The inquest was therefore adjourned until Wednesday, the 5th inst., at 2 o'clock, p. m.

The prisoner was taken to jail yesterday on the Coroners warrant, his daguerreotype having previously been taken. He appears very much dejected, and exhibits great anxiety about his family.

ESCAPE OF A PRISONER .- On Saturday last, a mar ESCAPE OF A PRISONER.—On Saturday last, a man named John McCully was convicted of petit larceny hefore Jus-tice Cornwell, and seatenced to the Penitentiary for 3 month's. The prisoner was placed in charge of Mr. A. L. West conductor of the Penitentiary wagon. On the way to the Institution the prisoner managed to shove Mr. West out of the vehicle with his feet. The officer fell heavily on the psyement, and the prisoner, although he was handcufed, managed to make his escape and has not since been heard of.

SATURDAY, Dec. 1-P. M.

The tone of the Store market was rather firmer at the first Board, 8' of there was a stronger disposition to buy through out the session. Prices improved moderately and although the market lacked buoyancy and a avity, there was a much better feeling displayed. Reports from Washington during the day have inspired hopes of a compromise in the political imbroglio of the day, and these, whether well founded or not, have undoubtedly given the Stock market its firmer tone. There was little hammering during the day, and it is supposed that a large proportion of the short interest has been covered, while at the same time the great bulk of contracts have been settled. There is conse quently but a small interest on either side at the Stock Exchange, and operators seem for the moment to be resting on the fence, waiting for fresh developments. New-York Central was steady during the day, and the cash stock continues scarce. Erie also was quite firm, and the Western shares with one or two exceptions, were from I to 2 P cent higher than at the close on Friday. At the Second Board, the business was more active, and the market, with some irregularity, was generally rather better. After the Board, the market was heavy, and without activity. past four months. The ensuing Winter business (canal navigation being suspended), considering our large moving crops and foreign demand, promises very large. There is certainly sufficient reason for considering the policy of increasing the dividends, in order that its stockholders may share in the increased net earnings. The transfer books of the Company close the 5th inst., and remain shut until the 12th inst., on which latter date the annual election for Directors occurs, at the Merchants' Exchange in Albany. Some two or three vacancies by death exist in the present Board. New-York stockholders ought to have an early meeting, to name one or more persons to fill such vacancies.

The Superintendent of the Illinois Central Railroad writes from Auburn "that large quantities of corn are cribbing on the branch, that the farmers are in fine spirits at the abundance of corn. Large purchases are being made at this point for New-Orleans and Texas. A Texas gentleman has just called upon me; he is buying one hundred thousand bushels of corn for that

The inquiries for land in the Central Office are in reasing from all parts of the country. The Commissioner is in treaty with several Scotchmen for large farms. The sales in November will add up about $200,000. The exchanges at the bank Clearing-House this morning were $20,327,263 50. The exchanges for the week ending this morning were $118,158,105 01, showing a daily average of $23,631,621, against $25,580,806 86, the week ending on Saturday last. The circulating notes of the Hunterdon County Bank of New-Jersey are no longer redeemed at the Commonwealth Bank.

The New-Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company has notified the holders of the scrip stock that the final installment of 50 $\varphi$ cent, or $25 $\varphi$ share, will be received on the 2d of January next, or payment may be postponed, on the payment of 6 ? cent interest to the 1st of January, shares on which the install-ment is unpaid will be liable to forfeiture. The Chemical having decided not to accede to the arrangement, the agreement of non-inter-

Virginia has remitted forty six thousand dollars of specie funds to this city to be sent for and by the next steamer for the payment of the interest due lst January in Lordon on £373,000 of the Five per Cents of that Strie.

The dullness of the Dry Goods trade at present is shown by the P.creased amount warehoused during the month for want of a market. The aggregate ie $1,601,-000 against $1,029,000 in November last year, the Prount withdrawn from warehouse shows a decrease of $100,000. The total amount entered for consumption since the 1st January is $86,616,000 against $96,921,000 same time last year. The amount withdrawn from warehouse in the same period was $8,384, 000 against $6,658,000, and the amount warehoused $9,600,000 against $7,474,000. The aggregate amount entered was $96,217,000 against $104,395,000 in the same period of 1859.

The specie movement of the week has been appar ently in favor of the banks, but there has been a constant small drain of gold from the banks which may have neutralized the California arrival of Sunday last and the gain from the Sub-Treasury. This is probably the case, as the actual specie line of the banks in the Clearing-House to-day is $16,895,000, to which must be added about $1,000,000 for the Chemical and the other banks not in the Clearing-House, making in round numbers $18,000,000 actually in bank this morning. The banks above alluded to as included in the Clearing-House held on the 23d November $16,887,000 in specie, so that they have increased their reserve a lew thousand dollars during the large expansion of leans of the past week. In regard to this expansion an error has crept into one of the evening papers which it may be proper to correct. The journal alluded to states that "We have reason to believe that the line on the 23d inst., the day when the expansion commenced, had run down to $110,000,000. The loans today are about $125,000,000."

This would give an expansion of $15,960,000. No such previous contraction, however, had taken place. The lowest average given by the weekly statement was $122,500,000, and the actual amount of loans given by the daily statement of the banks, included in the Clearing-House on the 23d November, was $118,200,000; adding the Chemical and other banks not included, the aggregate was about $121,500,000 instead of $110,000,000. The actual loan line of forty-nine banks to-day is $125,800,000, and adding the Chemical, &c., about $129,000,000. The actual increase of loans since the 23d ult., has been, in round numbers, $7,500,000 to $7,750,000.

From New-Orleans, the rate of exchange on New-York is quoted at 1 P cent discount, with a heavy fall in cotton, which may send specie again in that direction. The Illinois State Treasury has accumulated about a million and a quarter of gold, of which about a million will come here during the month for the payment of interest on and principal of the public debt.

The Cincinnati Commercial says:

The Cincinnati Commercial says:

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad have possession of that portion of the Peoria and Quawka Railroad between Peoria and Galesburg, III., and have recently endeavored to divert all the Western trails to Chicago over their own line, by charging local rates between those points, and by causing unnecessory delay. Up n complaint of the Peoria and Quawka Railroad Company, the Peoria Circuit Court, on the 24th inst, granted an injunction, restraining the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad Company, tommanding them to carry passengers and freight without unnecessary delay, and at the same proportionate rate of freight and passenger money that they demand or receive for such business coming from the west of Galesburg and destined to any point on the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad and its connections east of Galesburg, in the direction of Chicago.

The Boston Traveller says: The Boston Traveller says:

The Money stringency shows no improvement, and remains without any shatement. The higher rates of interest still continue to be paid for loans and discounts in the open market. The bank specie declined $27,800 to day, leaving $3,43,100 as side aggregate holding. The highest count this year was $55,155,413, in July. The Stock market is heavy and inactive, under a pressure of sellers and a scarcity of buyers—the general impression being that prices will be lower before they are higher. Some of the purchasers in the early part of the week have since sold at a less, from a fear of the approaching news from the other side. At Philadelphija te money market has undergone little change. The dema of so active, and first-class can be negotiated on better ter-for many weeks past.

The Chicago Tribune says:

The money market has been dull and quiet during the day in all departments. Exchange is still sold at 7 P coats premisers, and buying rates are about $4,66. The bunks do not like to pay over 6 P cent, and as it is by no means certain how long the high rates can continue. There never was a time when our shreadest operators were more at fault as to the future. As the panic, certainly in its more serious aspect, came on with apparently little reason, so it may end at any time, and for reasons equally trivial and unexpected.
